Langevin meeting small but vocal

There was some lively talk, but not a lot of controversy, at a public meeting between MLA Paul Langevin and Heinsburg residents Wednesday.

The meeting drew just six people to the Heinsburg community school, but featured two hours' worth of discussion on such topics as cut-backs to seniors' benefits, the Young Offenders Act, and the regionalization of education boards in rural Alberta.

In most cases, residents seemed happy with the independent MLA's statements -- and his track record.

"I want to congratulate you on your work with (Vegreville MLA Ed) Stelmach on regionalization," a Heinsburg teacher told Langevin.

E-Can a major player

While the recent sewage lagoon cleanup in Elk Point was costly for both the Town and the three major oil companies which agreed to share the burden, it could have been worse.

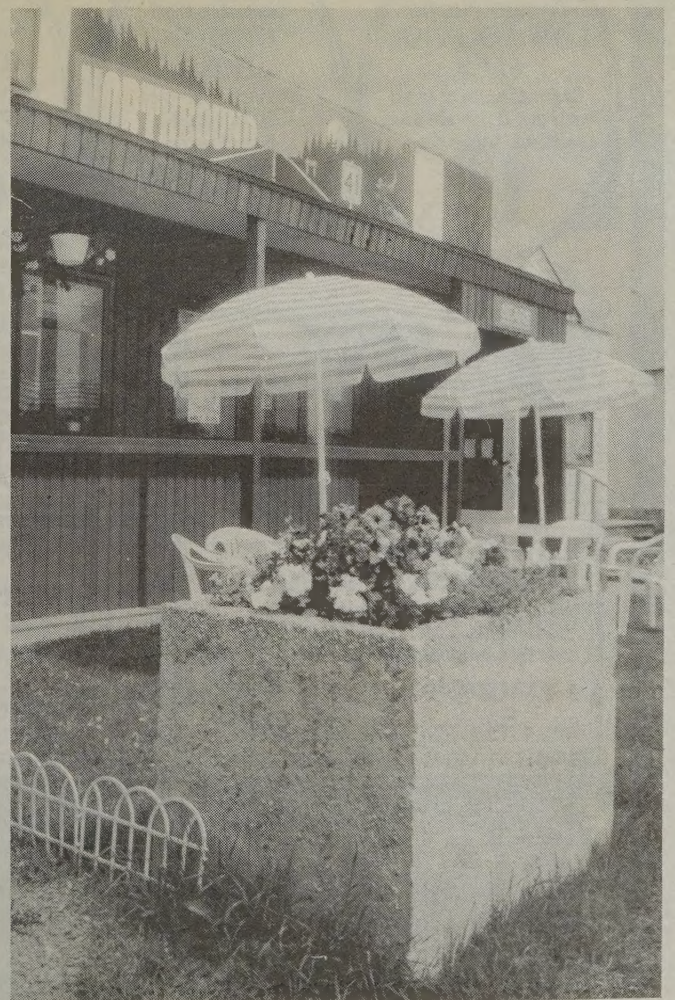

Before the bill was submitted to the Town, E-Can Oilfield Services, who did the cleanup, had knocked a substantial 25 percent off the bill for rental equipment and vacuum work. The discount saved $1221.50 on the $4886 cleanup portion of the bill, which also involved cleaning of the tank in which the substance was later stored.

Other portions of the $10,000 cleanup were undertaken by Pan Canadian and Amoco.

Andrew Boddy of E-Can has also indicated he is willing to participate with the Town and oil companies in formulating regulations to avert future incidents of this type, and a plan for dealing with any spills that do occur.

LOOKING GOOD! Elk Point businesses, organizations and individuals are taking the beautification concept to heart this summer. Clockwise, from above, are a big yellow marigold "L" in the bed tended by the Lioness Club, a newly planted pine tree replacing the nonworking fountain in Mural Park, a summery scene of umbrella tables and blossoming planters at one of the downtown businesses, and an overflowing planter of petunias (kindly donated by Benner's Greenhouse) by the RCMP monument next to the Chamber of Commerce Tourist Information Booth. Thanks, everyone, for helping to make the community so attractive.

"I think it will probably save money in the long run."

Another resident said he supported Langevin's stand against the Young Offenders Act, and recalled a break-in that happened near his house this year.

"They caught them red-handed, and these kids just got off. They can just spit in the RCMP's face, you know, and say, 'Just touch me and I'll sue you.'"

Langevin and the six participants also gave the Klein government's cutbacks generally positive reviews.

"Contrary to what some people predicted, they don't seem to be killing the economy at all," Langevin said.

"There was $380 million more income tax paid this year, which suggests there is more activity out there. There certainly has to be some success."

Since leaving the Liberal caucus, Langevin said, he has voted in favor of two-thirds of the government's bills, including an initiative to trim benefits to high-income seniors.

"We should remember that it's only as the people's income climbs that those cuts get severe," Langevin said.

"Low-income seniors will be getting even more."

Some residents took time to press Langevin on local issues - such as the fate of Heinsburg's antique water tower - and on national questions, such as a proposed 10 per cent sales tax to replace the GST.

"If all the other provinces jump on the bandwagon (in favor of the new tax), we might be forced to follow along," he said.

"That would mean three per cent more for the people of Alberta than they are used to. It should be reflected on a reduced tax somewhere else, like property taxes."

Ideally, however, Langevin would support Alberta opting out of the tax entirely, and paying only the portion - four per cent - that's destined for federal coffers.

After the meeting, Langevin said he was pleased with the level of discussion in Heinsburg.

Residents of other centers - including St. Paul and Elk Point - will have their opportunity to speak to the MLA later in the year.

Langevin won't rejoin Grits

Rob Desjardins

Staff Writer

Lac La Biche-St. Paul MLA Paul Langevin says he won't rejoin the Liberal caucus, even though the man whose leadership he denounced has resigned.

Provincial Liberal leader Laurence Decore announced Friday he's stepping down from the party's helm.

But Langevin, who left the Liberal caucus April 5 saying Decore's leadership was "contrary to everything we campaigned on," will remain outside the party circle.

"I simply feel I can serve this constituency better as an independent," Langevin told a public meeting in Heinsburg last week.

"Since I went independent, we've gotten a few grants, and also brought the (1996 Alberta) Senior Games to St. Paul. And the government keeps me informed, they're prepared to work with me on important issues."

Langevin's move prompted sympathetic murmurs from other Liberals, including Lethbridge East MLA Ken Nicol and Calgary-North West MLA Frank Bruseker.

But in a telephone interview on Friday, Decore told The Journal the mutiny had nothing to do with his decision to leave.

"Langevin would never frighten me out of being the leader of the Liberal party.

That's the last thing that would make me go."

The outgoing leader said his reasons for leaving were largely personal.

"Staying on would take me way beyond the timetable I committed to with my family. There have been some personal concerns which have brought us together."

But Langevin contended his own actions "had quite a bit to do" with Decore's departure.

"It was probably the start of him having to make this decision," he said Friday. "The dissent started to show up more and more after I resigned."

Edmonton-Gold Bar MLA Bettie Hewes will serve as the party's interim leader until a replacement is chosen. So far, no candidates have come forward.

But Langevin, who attended Decore's press conference on the steps of the Legislature Friday, had his own theory about who the contenders might be.

And while Langevin said the leadership contest likely won't change his mind about rejoining the party, he did offer his old colleagues some advice.

"If the Liberals have any hope of being successful, they'll have to choose a candidate that will appeal to rural Alberta," he said.

"Traditionally, the party with that rural support always forms the government."

It's a busy summer for the forts

The Fort George / Buckingham House Interpretive Centre has recently passed the halfway mark of its summer season. May and June were busy with school tours, with groups visiting from Ashmont, Frog Lake, Glendon, Heinsburg, Mallaig, Marwayne, St. Paul, Bonnyville and Vermilion. Homeschool associations from Bonnyville and St. Paul also toured the center, and the Interpretive staff received pleasant visits from seniors groups in Edmonton and Local Brownies.

On June 19, the center held a Father's Day celebration with activities including lantern making, games and a wiener roast. The day also marked the grand opening of the gift store for the summer, and over sixty visitors enjoyed the day's events. The Interpretive staff would like to thank the following companies for their generous donations: Dave's Pizza, Dr. Adam's Office, E-Can Oilfield Services, Pan Canadian, TD Bank and Woody's Trophy and Gifts. The staff would also like to extend its appreciation to Roy Scott and the Friends of the Forts for donating the supplies for the wiener roast, and to Dale Pinder for helping to make the day a success.

Canada Day festivities at the center included a local reunion: the Fidler Family bringing memories of the past with the celebrations for the future. Approximately 100 family members were out on Saturday afternoon to partake in games and activities. One highlight of the Fidler Weekend was the canoe trip organized by local friend of the Fort, Pat Johnson, which left the Elk Point bridge and landed below Fort George.

Have a great summer and we look forward to seeing you!!

Health Authority planning continues

At the regular meeting of July 11, 1994 Lakeland Health Authority reviewed the short list of 30 some applicants for the Temporary Chief Executive Officer. Interviews are scheduled for Friday, July 15. It is expected the Authority will have contracted the C.E.O. and one support staff to open the office in Smoky Lake as soon as possible.

The Authority as well reviewed an official letter from Health Minister Shirley McClellan to existing health boards outlining the need for prudent operation during the transition period in matters such as hiring and termination procedures, significant structural reorganization, staffing of key management personnel, spending guidelines, program changes, purchases of major equipment, extension of contracts, and the cross boundary movement of assets.

The Authority clearly defined the mandate of its individual members. Although the appointments are geographically represented each member shall be dedicated to the ideal of total quality health service of the region.

Other businesses included the approval of a preliminary start-up budget for submission to the Minister. Community Health Councils were further discussed with the decision to delay development until the three-year business plan is prepared. The Authority must establish one or more community councils in the region. The total conceptual model of operation and management of health services in the region will incorporate the necessary guidelines. In the meantime the Authority will continue to hear from and meet with interested individuals and groups recognizing that such input is essential to the Authority's plan. The Authority was pleased and encouraged by interest shown by the public at the meeting. The public is reminded that regular meetings are open, and delegations must make appointments one week before to provide for orderly reception and place on the agenda. Appointments can be made by calling Colleen at 656-3730 until the Authority moves to its new location in Smoky Lake's Provincial Building in the near future. Regular meetings are scheduled for July 18, August 10 and 25, September 9 and 21.

Service extended

Quality Time Tours, which has served Elk Point with passenger and freight service since Greyhound eliminated this stop from its schedules, is now extending their service to include a run to St. Paul, Bonnyville, Frog Lake, Tulibey Lake Junction, Marwayne, Kitscoty and Lloydminster, also making a detour to Grand Centre on the return journey. The new run starts July 12 and will offer 6-day-a-week service to these points.

The new route will allow passengers from these points to travel to Lloydminster in a maximum of just over three hours, rather than the close to seven hours required to make the journey via Edmonton.

Our Past

By Steve Andrishak

From the time the hamlet of Elk Point was founded in 1908 to the year of 1954 our residents obtained their water supply either from a water well located on their property or from some neighboring well. During this period of time there were few hamlet or village regulations and if a resident wanted to keep a milk cow, a horse or two, or a flock of chickens on his property there was little to stop him. This created a serious problem during the spring run off, a time when many water wells became polluted or contaminated making water unfit to drink.

To offset this problem the Village of Elk Point voted to install a water and sewer system in 1953. The water and sewer lines were soon laid down and the project was completed in 1954. Elk Point's first water supply came from a deep well located two miles west of the village. The water was pumped into a wooden water tower which was located near our old elementary school. This water supply had an excessive amount of iron in it and in no time all water appliances had dark rust stains on them which were difficult to take off. The water tower served its purpose for 14 years. In the winter time small leaks in the tower created massive icicles which hung on all sides of this wooden structure.

Elk Point's water supply

In 1968 the town of Elk Point had a huge reservoir built south west of town. Its capacity when filled totalled more than 20 million gallons of water. This reservoir drew its water from the Dog Rump Creek and Armistice Lake during the spring runoff. During dry years this water supply system created many problems. The town crew had to constantly destroy dams built by beaver in order to maintain a constant flow of water. At this same time a water treatment plant was built near the reservoir. Here the water was treated so it was fit for human consumption. Next it was piped to a large underground storage tank which was located in the north end of town.

Soon after the huge reservoir was put to use, the old wooden tower was demolished.

About 3 or 4 years ago the town decided to pump water from the North Saskatchewan River to the reservoir. A pipeline was laid on top of the surface (about two miles long) and about twice a year the reservoir was filled to capacity. This new system allowed a steady flow of water to the reservoir at all times and eliminated water shortages which often occurred when other methods were used.

Tourist Information Clerk

We had an out-of-province visitor the other day who wanted a map to a place called Hug-gone-done.

"Is it a lake? A resort, maybe?" we ask.

"No, it's just a town."

"A town? In Alberta?"

"Yeah! A small town, south of here." "South of here" covers a lot of territory, and we had to admit we never heard of this town. We look at the map.

"I think it's near a place called Caesar."

"Caesar?" We are thoroughly puzzled now.

"Or something like that." We look at the map some more.

"Czar?" we suggest.

"Sure," he agrees.

Light dawns. "Hughenden."

"O. K. Why not?" He is very cheerful and agreeable. We find him a map and wave him on his way, fervently hoping that out there somewhere is not a place called Hug-gone-done and the nearby town of Caesar.

Sometimes we think we are living in an old Abbot and Costello routine.

Setting your investments

J. Lang Ellison

B. Comm., B. Sc., (Agric.) P. Ag., Manager
Toronto Dominion Bank

With such a wide variety of financial products and services today, it is often difficult to decide where to invest your money. Different types of investments serve different purposes. So it is important to determine your investment objectives before choosing where you invest your money. This can be done by asking yourself a few simple questions.

1. How much risk are you willing to take? Are you willing to risk your principal for a potentially larger gain or would you settle for a smaller return if your initial investment was protected?

Higher rates of return are usually associated with investments that carry a high level of risk. For example, when you buy stocks the risk / return is higher than when you buy Treasury Bills.

If you are most concerned with the safety of your principal, more conservative investments, such as government bonds, T-bills, and G.I.C.s provide security as well as a specified rate of return.

2. How accessible does your money have to be? Some investments require you to lock in your money for a specified term and others provide complete access to your funds at all times.

3. Do you want your investments to provide steady income? You may want them to provide regular income to maintain your lifestyle and cover regular expenses. To achieve this, you should consider investing in low-risk vehicles which provide a steady rate of return, eg. G.I.C.s, bonds or mortgage-backed securities.

4. Are you investing for long term growth? Do you intend to maintain your investment for several years with the expectation of continuous growth? A balanced, diversified portfolio of low, moderate and high risk investments will help you achieve this objective.

Your unique circumstances will determine the investments best for you. So, before choosing your in-

Cousins meet after 50 years

During the Canada Day weekend, Tom and Bonnie Witty from Kamloops, B.C. along with daughter Doranna, grandson Thomas Jarret and friend Rob arrived to visit their first cousin Ed Nazarchuk, wife Rose and their families and Tom's aunt Eva Nazarchuk of Elk Point, AB.

This was Tom's second visit; his first one was two years ago locating his family (Ed and Rose) and other relatives; after 50 years there was a lot of catching up.

Tours of the family homesteads were of great interest to the Witty's; and the log buildings say how much hard work was put into the homesteads by their ancestors.

The Witty's also visited cousins Mike Cymbaluk, Jennie Hryciw, Nick and Mary Wysocki of Two Hills; John and Olga Ewanchuk and Orest and Oksana Hryciw of Vegreville; Paul and Brenda Nazarchuk of Edmonton, and Peter and Betty McGuire of Sherwood Park.

Tom and Bonnie were very impressed with the towns and families they visited and hope to visit their new-found cousins more often. We're all very happy that Tom and his family did the research to locate us.

HAD A REUNION?

Many Albertans gamble as a form of recreation. For a small minority, however, gambling becomes a problem. If you or someone you know is experiencing personal, social or financial problems as a result of their gambling, confidential help is available. Call 1-800-665-9676.

Replacement physician to relieve Dr. Ramful

A rural locum physician will be serving the residents of Elk Point from July 18 to 25, 1994 while Dr. Drew Ramful is away from the community.

The Rural Locum Program, initiated by Alberta Health and the Alberta Medical Association, provides temporary replacements for rural physicians who are away on education, vacation or sick leave. With this program, area residents are assured of continuous medical services, and the local doctor is provided relief. This unique service is an initiative of the Rural Physician Action Plan developed to improve recruitment and retention of physicians in small rural communities like Elk Point.

Dr. Wicker recently completed his family practice residency at the University of Alberta with his final rotation in rural northeast Alberta. His wife will accompany him on his rural assignments, and they have future plans to practice in rural Alberta following his year with the Rural Locum Program.

Health authority appoints CEO

Mr. Donald Carley, long time senior health care administrator and the current Administrator of the Cold Lake Regional Hospital has been appointed Chief Executive Officer (temporary) of the Lakeland Regional Health Authority.

"Mr. Carley brings 24 years of senior health care administration experience to our position," said Dareld Cholak, Chairman of the Authority. "In addition, he brings us a wealth of knowledge from the recent Ontario experience in regionalization of health services. Mr. Carley's extensive experience will be valuable to the Authority in its massive job of restructuring and regional integration of health services."

The Regional Health Authority is the new governing board which will oversee the delivery of integrated health services in the Lakeland region.

Mr. Carley will commence his duties immediately on a part-time basis and full time not later than August 2, 1994. IN the meantime until the Smoky Lake Provincial Building offices are fully available, contacts should continue to be made through Colleen at 656-3730.

PUBLIC NOTICE

ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION AND ENHANCEMENT ACT NOTICE OF APPLICATION

In accordance with the Environmental Protection and Enhancement Act, JMB Crushing Systems Ltd., has applied for Approval to remove sand and gravel from NW 16-56-7-W4M in the County of St. Paul No. 19.

The application is for approval for a sand and gravel operation. Operations involve gravel mining, screening, and crushing of gravel. The proposed operation is to be located on previously undisturbed pastureland. This application is for a new site and will disturb a total of 24.3 hectares over the next ten years. The land will be reclaimed to pasture. The operation is located 5 kilometres southwest of Elk Point.

Any person directly affected and wishing to file a statement of concern with respect to conservation and reclamation activities can do so by writing to L.K. Buddy wins Stampede Aggregate Next time you see Buddy Bensmiller, he will probably be driving a new truck.

The Dewberry teamster racked up the fastest cumulative running time for the first nine days of the Calgary Stampede to win the Richard Cosgrave Memorial Trophy and the use of a 1994 GMC pickup truck for one year, both courtesy of GMC Trucks. His total time for the nine days was 11:30.97, 1.22 seconds faster than his closest competitor, Ward Willard.

Bensmiller's outriders, Wayne Wright, Roger Moore, Dale Grey and Ross Knight, received trophy buckles for their part in the aggregate win.

Bensmiller and Willard, along with Norm Cuthbertson, with a total time of 11:33.43, and Tom Glass, with a total time of 11:34.70, then advanced to the $50,000 championship heat on Sunday.

That was a whole different story. Glass took full advantage of his Number 1 barrel position to take the rail and go wire to wire in 1:14.54 for the win. Bensmiller's Chinook Centre rig got a rather slow start off Barrel 2, but edged around Willard and Cuthbertson to challenge Glass' Totem Building Supplies outfit in the home stretch, coming in just 18 / 100 of a second behind the winner.

Glass still didn't have the fastest run of the evening. Reg Johnstone, who set a new Calgary track record of 1:13.12 on Saturday night, clocked a 1:13.29 run, giving Glass second day money, while Bensmiller had the third fastest time.

Bensmiller will now be heading to Cheyenne Frontier Days with a group of other Northern Professional Chuckwagon Association wagons for their July 22 to 31 show. The remainder of the NPCA drivers will hit the track at St. Walburg, Saskatchewan this Saturday and Sunday.

Stoney Lake Stampede

Ideal summer weather, a record breaking crowd, with scenic Stoney Lake in the background, and Stoney Creek in front plus great rodeo entertainment. Combine it with campers, motorhomes, horse trailers and colorful cheering rodeo fans, and you have a real fulfilled weekend in a beautiful rural setting.

Thrills, spills and chills were the order of the day at the two-day Stoney Lake Stampede.

The oldest original stampede in northern Alberta (first one held in 1924) was led off by a colorful grand entry by the Stoney Lake Stampede members, led by stampede president, John Kiss. A special tribute was paid to Les Trach and the great bucking horse Hot Chocolate, who has won the Lakeland bucking horse of the year nine times out of ten. He is just one of the great horse athletes in the Trach Rodeo Company bucking string.

In the saddle bronc riding, Gary Seutter won the event with a score of 73. Bareback bronc riding was won by Arthur Peterson with 69 points. Steer wrestling was won by Reg Pomeranz in 5.3 seconds. The junior bull riding was won by Brian Cumming with a great ride worth 77 points. Bruce Christie took the calf roping with a time of 10.3 seconds.

There was a very large entry of ladies' barrel racers, and the fastest time was run by Sherry Hehr in 15.255 seconds. Local cowgirl Erica Nielsen captures the junior barrel racing with a time of 15.528.

Jason Fletcher teamed up with Stace Swan to win the team roping with the fast time of 5.7 seconds. Novice horse riding, a new event in the Lakeland rodeo circuit, was won by Brad Lueders with a score of 65. Derek Hehr topped the bull riding with a 76 point ride.

The exciting wild steer stoneboat race, a special Stoney Lake spectacular event was won by Kevin Drobot and his Stoney Lake team.

Mutton busting, a kiddies' calf scramble and small petting zoo were enjoyed by young and old, to make the Stoney Lake Stampede's program truly a part of the International Year of the Family.

NEAT stampede in Calgary

Buddy Bensmiller's chuckwagon wasn't the only thing from the Lakeland turning in fast times at the track in Calgary last weekend.

So did the athletes of the North East Alberta Track Club.

NEAT stampeded to 11 medals and several personal best performances at the Provincial Track and Field championships at Foothills Park in Calgary over the weekend.

"Overall, the medal count wasn't as high as it has been in previous years," Neat coach Reg Green said. "But individual performances were way better - lots of personal bests."

Joni Matthews won a gold medal in the long jump, a silver in the triple jump and a bronze in the 200 metres - despite the fact she was competing against women four years her senior.

Because the 15-year-old Matthews is a carded athlete, she had to compete at the junior women's level. Points are not awarded to carded athletes unless they are competing at the junior level or higher. She usually competes at the midget girls' level. A carded athlete can receive partial funding for training.

Matthews soared in her long jump - a personal best of 5.56 metres - 25 centimetres further than her previous best.

Matthews fouled on four of her six attempts at the pits - ironically, her only other good jump at 5.49 would have also been a PB.

Matthews also had a PB in finishing third in the junior women's 200 metres with a time of 25.76.

Her silver medal jump in the triple jump was 10.89.

Glen Cherniwchan also won a pair of medals in Calgary despite the fact he "was playing hurt this weekend," according to Green. Cherniwchan was suffering a sprained ankle.

He won a silver medal in the juvenile boys' triple jump with a leap of 12.38. He finished third in the discus with a throw of 25.88 metres.

Clinton Lapatack continued to shine in this his first year with NEAT.

He won a silver medal in the midget boys' 1,500 metres, completing the so-called metric-mile in a time of 4:36.32. He finished third in the 3,000 metres with a time of 10:10.02.

He also tried something a little different - he jumped over water and walls in finishing fourth in the juvenile boys' steeplechase.

Other medal winners from NEAT include Bonnyville's Louise Robert who finished third in the midget girls' 300-metre hurdles - despite the fact that she is a bantam. Her sister Michelle Robert finished third in the midget girls' long jump at 4.66 metres.

Calvin Coulombe, also of Bonnyville, was third in the juvenile boys' 300-metre hurdles.

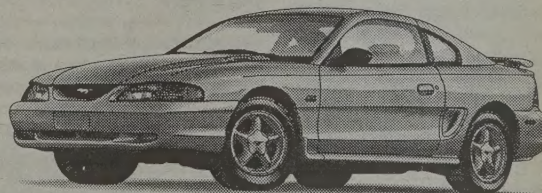

Lindsay Pinkney from Fort McMurray was third in the junior women's 3,000 metres.
